They also submit an agreement providing that the mortgages shall be foreclosed by the bondholders, and that a new corporation shall be created, in which bondholders, stockholders, and creditors shall have an interest. MEXICAN OUTRAGES.

Raids on the Texas Border.

Los Almos Plundered.

NEW ORLEANS, November 12.—The Galveston News has a special from Brownsville giving an account of a raid on Los Almos, which causes some excitement. This decides the question as to the existence of an organized band in Mexico to invade Texas. Los Almos is about one hundred miles from the Rio Grande. It has three or four stores and a good many inhabitants. Mr. McGovern, custom house inspector, recently from Edinburg, says that a party of raiders were in Hidalgo county about five days ago. They had bales of calico, etc, on their horses. They crossed the Rio Grande between Edinburg and Ringgold Barracks, nearly a hundred miles below Guerrero. They were from Matamoras and other towns on the lower Rio Grande, and not from Guerrero. Ricards Floens is stealing cotton from this side.

Two weeks since a herder of Celaya and Donache was captured by a band of robbers. They tied his hands behind him, his feet under his horse's belly, and turned the horse loose. After grazing around for twelve hours the horse went to the ranche, and the poor man was released. The marauders collected cattle and drove them into Mexico. This occurred about twelve miles south of Brownsville.

Three days since four armed Mexicans stopped a United States soldier in the road about thirty miles above here. They questioned him and let him go. A detachment of mounted men was sent from the camp at Los Rucias to look for the Mexicans. The result is not known.

These events speak for themselves. They show whether the reported raids were fabrications or well-grounded warnings. The party which robbed Los Almos intended to have gone to Corpus Christi, if they had a sufficient force. This was divulged by a man who overheard a conversation in Matamoras. The cloud of a border war is more lowering.

Double Insurance on Wooden Ships.

There is considerable gossip circulating through the streets on the subject of double insurance on wooden ships in the Pacific Mail Company's service. One of the officers of the company had caused the ships to be insured, and one of the directors had procured the same insurance. As the company did not require a double insurance, there was a dispute between the officer and director as to which contract should be recognized, it being reported that the latter had threatened to resign unless the insurance affected by him should be recognized.

THE BEE-KEEPERS' CONVENTION.

Two Sessions Held Yesterday—Different Topics Discussed—Election of Officers for the Ensuing Year—Committees Appointed—Time and Place for Holding the Next Convention.

The North American Bee Association reassembled in Germania Hall, corner of Wood street and Diamond alley, yesterday morning at nine o'clock, President Seth Hoagland in the chair.

The following Publishing Committee was appointed: Messrs. Pope, Rush and Mrs. Tupper.

The report of the Business Committee, giving topics for the morning discussion, was presented, the first being the question, of "Adulteration of Honey."

Remarks were made at length upon this topic by Mr. H. A. King of New York.

After some further discussion, Messrs. King, Hoagland and A. Benedict were appointed a committee to draft resolutions expressive of the judgment of the association against the practice of adulterating honey.

The next topic of discussion was "Bee Forage" and was debated by several members who favored buckwheat to white clover. Mr. Hoagland, thought the forest was the great home of the bee. The richer the soil the greater would be the amount of honey extracted from the flower. The discussion as to the value of the various flowers for "bee forage" was continued for sometime and was quite interesting. The sunflower, sassafras, the purple aster, and many other flowers had their respecmerits as for honey thoroughly demonstrathed.

The third topic reported by the Business Committee was, "The Wintering of Bees Under Glass," upon which different members of the Convention related what they had learned from experience on this subject.

The next question taken up was "Candied Honey," and the best methods of preventing this was under consideration at the hour of adjournment.

Afternoon Session.

At the opening of the afternoon session President Hoagland announced that an hour would be occupied in the exhibition of articles which had been brought in for display. A number of hives and different improvements were brought forward.

At the close of the exhibition the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Rev. W. F. Clark, of Canada.
Vice Presidents—Messrs. Seth Hoagland, of Pennsylvania; M. Quimby, of New York; F. Drabb, of Illinois; A. Chapman, of West Virginia; A. Benedict, of Ohio; F. Benton, of Tennessee, and Dr. Thorn, of Ontario.
Secretary—D. L. Brown, Esq.
Treasurer—J. S. Hill, Esq.
Cor. Secretary—H. A. King, Esq.

The Treasurer's report was read and received and a deficit of $6.29 ordered to be paid.

A report from the Committee on Centennial Exposition was read by Mrs. Tupper, which was adopted. The report had reference to room obtained for the exhibition of articles in the Centennial building.

Evening Session.

The convention met at half past 6 o'clock, and was called to order by President Hoagland, who proceeded to deliver his valedictory address, stating that according to the custom of the organization, his official term had expired. He said that the present was one of the happiest moments of his life. After giving a short history of the organization, he introduced Mr. W. F. Clark, of Canada, the President elect, who said it was the second time he had been called to the Presidential chair of the North American Bee Keepers' Association. He did not attribute this honor to any particular ability in himself as a bee man, but was willing to give the question all it demanded. He thought there had been much progress in Bee keeping since the organization of the society that there were certain principles which had been established; that it had been proven that bees would build honey in a rough, unadorned hive as well as in one beautifully ornamented; that much knowledge had been gained as to moth-traps and different methods of capturing the enemies of the busy bee. He thought somemeans should be devised to get the opinions and experience of those who turn their attention to bee keeping, and thought the best method to learn these lessons was by calling together the best apiarians of the country. To this end he recommended that societies be formed in every State and county, auxiliary to the association of North America, in which subjects would be discussed which would bring out many new points which would prove beneficial. It would be a good idea to have a competent lecturer go about giving a series of lessons, for which he should receive a fair remuneration. This would make the subject spread from one neighborhood to another, and might bring out many new ideas, and effect beneficial results. The society must go ahead or retrograde, and to move forward it must be with boldness, even like the bees, in whose interest the convention had gathered, determined to conquer. The speaker closed by saying that by increasing the production of honey he thought the association might become benefactors of society, and promised to give his time and attention to his new office.

Mr. A. Chapman, who had introduced a topic for discussion relative to the selection of a locality "where queens might be raised, and recommended that a committee be appointed for that purpose," spoke in favor of such a movement, and argued that much money would be saved in importation from foreign countries. He believed that just as good queens could be raised here as elsewhere, by proper care.

Mr. A. Benedict of Ohio being called up, responded by saying that more pains should be taken to rear a less number of bees, and do it more careful, in order that they might be pure. He favored a joint stock company to try the experiment of raising queens.

Mr Hoagland suggested that a committee be appointed to take this matter in charge, said committee to report at the next meeting.

Mrs. E. S. Tupper gave her experience in importing Italian bees, and said it was not attended with financial success. She thought that there were better bees in this country now than exists in Italy. She inquired what was the use of making importations when there was already purer stock in certain localities which was better than that which might be brought in. She thought that instead of spending any money in importations, it should be used to improve the stock at home, and in encouraging bee keepers in this country.

Mr. Chapman thought in the shipping of bees or queens, that honey which had been standing out of the hive was in fit to place in the box with them, upon which they might feed during their transportation. Mr. H. A. King, of New York, related some facts in connection with a visit made to Germany, in the interest of bee keeping. In his address he spoke of the impurity of queens, and of the deception of those who made their rearing a specialty. He advocated a system by which a diploma should be given to queen rearers who would, by proper culture, and giving evidence of the purity of their stock, show that they had only the genuine Italians with which to supply their customers.

Mr. A. Benedict suggested that in order to improve the stock, it would be a good idea to make proper examinations among those who have queenerys, and report to the next convention.

Mr. Anderson favored destroying all the inferior stock, and using the greatest possible care in rearing only that which is pure.

President Clark made a few remarks upon queen-raising, in which he disagreed with Mr. King in the issuing of diplomas by the Bee Keepers' Association.

Mr. King favored the offering of premiums to those who are engaged in queen rearing, and calling upon them to bring samples of their apiary to the next Convention. He made a motion that a committee of three be appointed to consider the feasibility of offering these premiums. Carried.

Mr. King of the Business Committee reported Toledo, Ohio, as the place of holding the next Convention, and the first Wednesday of December, 1875, as the time. Adopted.

Mr. King, Mr. Benedict and Mrs. Tupper were appointed a committee to report on the rearing of queens to-morrow. Adjourned.

EXTRAORDINARY BARGAINS IN DRY GOODS

At A. W. Erwin's,

172 AND 174 FEDERAL STREET, ALLEGHENY.

In consequence of our recent embarrassment, and to convert our large stock of goods into cash as rapidly as possible, we will offer, for the next few weeks, some bargains that will be unprecedented in the history of the Dry Goods trade. Our stock is unusually full and complete, and will be kept fully supplied with all the best bargains in Dry Goods, as they are offered in the Eastern markets. It is a good time now to make purchases, as at no time for the last fifteen years have the prices of Dry Goods been so low as now. We respectfully ask an examination of the quality of our goods, and a comparison of our STYLE and PRICES with those of any other house in the Dry Goods trade.

A. W. ERWIN,
172 and 174 Federal street, Allegheny.
26 Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh.

Our readers have not failed to notice the interesting and useful hints contained in the articles which have appeared in our paper from Drs. Oldshue, 132 Grant street, Pittsburgh, Pa. Being personally acquainted with those physicians we are prepared to recommend them as gentlemen, and we judge well posted in their profession. If any of our readers have failed to read the consecutive notices that have appeared, we advise that they look them up and observe the future articles. What costs but a minute or two to read may prove a great blessing, when what is written is the result of study and mature experiment. Few men are so well prepared from experience and proper mode of testing the nature of diseases in the way indicated as the Doctors Oldshue.

INSPECTING ACCOUNTS.

The Auditors Commence to Probe the Affairs of the City Hall Commission—Examination of Mr. Steele by the Taxpayers' Union—Looking into Vouchers.

Yesterday morning Messrs. Veech, Miller and Bailey, who were appointed by the Court to audit the accounts of the City Hall Commission, held a meeting in the reception room of Municipal Hall, and commenced the work assigned to them. The Taxpayers' Union was well represented in the persons of Judge Mellon, R. J. Powers, Alex. King, John Dunlap, George Finley and Isaac Jones.

TESTIMONY OF THE SECRETARY.

The first person examined was Mr. Thos. Steel, the Secretary of the Commission. He testified as follows concerning the funds received from sale of bonds.

The Commission had no pass-books of deposits with any bank or bankers in this city. The moneys were all deposited with the City Treasurer; the Commission took receipts for all money turned over to the City Treasurer; his books will show all the transactions covering the whole $260,000 of bonds sold. The Commission did not pay any commission for the sale of bonds; Townsend, Wheelen & Co., were our bankers; no warrants for commissions have been drawn, nor have any commissions been paid, as the accrued interest nearly balanced the accounts; I think we are about $100 in debt to our brokers; the brokers got their commission out of the accrued interest and the interest on moneys which might not have been drawn for a few days; the Commission got the full face of the bonds.

ANSWERING QUESTIONS.

In response to a question by Mr. Bailey if any citizen would be allowed to ask questions, Mr. Steel said he was ready and willing to reply to all interrogatories which would give any information to the public. Mr. Powers said he appeared as one of the citizens. He said, on behalf of those he represented, that he expected to show that there were some discrepancies in the accounts, or that some of the vouchers were not correct.

Judge Mellon then asked how long it was between the times the bonds were sold and the money drawn out.

Mr. Steele—I can't answer. I think it was usually only a few days. We generally sold them as they were needed. The brokers would have the account; never had any account of the accrued interest; never deposited more than the face of the bonds with the City Treasurer; that would have confused our accounts, the Commission never received any interest; think it was all absorbed by the commission to the brokers, and probably a little more; don't remember the date of the bonds; the register will show; they all bear interest at the same time; we may have drawn some money from the banks after the bonds were sold; there were only $160,000 of bonds sold; the rest of the money was raised by taxation; think I deposited some checks received from Philadelphia with the Freehold Bank, and received the money on them from that institution. Some of the checks were credited to me, and then I checked them over to the City Treasurer; I never received any interest upon the deposit of such checks or proceeds thereof, nor did any member of the commission, as far as I know.

MONEY DEPOSITS.

To Judge Mellon—I never had any moneys deposited by me designated as public moneys. I am responsible for all public moneys entrusted to me, and as I have been sufficiently explicit, I do not propose to answer any further questions unless directed by the auditors. I cannot tell how much money I had on deposit at any one time belonging to the commission. The Freehold Bank never paid me on any public moneys or on any money except my own.

To Judge Veech—Don't think my accounts would show what remittances came from Philadelphia.

To Judge Mellon—I consider myself responsible for all public moneys coming into my possession. I am Treasurer and a stockholder of the Freehold Bank. A middling big stockholder to a man in moderate means, but not to a person in your financial condition. The bank was a private corporation at the time, and is so still.

VOUCHERS.

Mr. Mellon said there were additional questions in regard to the vouchers he would like to propound, and also questions touching other matters concerning which Mr. Steel had not been examined. The witness replied that he was prepared to answer all proper questions.

Judge Mellon—Was there any vouchers upon which less money was paid than the amount appearing on the face of the vouchers?

Mr. Steel—Oh my, no. Indeed there was not.

Judge Mellon—Didn't some of the men whose vouchers appear here receive less money than appears on the face of them?

Mr. Steel—The contractors agreed to take certain amounts of bonds. Some of them authorized me to sell the bonds for them.

Judge Mellon—What I want to know is whether some of the contractors did not have to pay you a percentage for the amount of a voucher?

Mr. Steel—No, sir. Sub-contractors never received less than the city owed them. There were private arrangements between contractors and sub-contractors, and in those cases it sometimes happened that sub-contractors paid the amount of commissions for the sale of bonds by each contractor. The contracts will show how many bonds were taken by contractors. I was authorized to sell the bonds for the contractors, but the city got the full face of the bonds.

RECEIVED NO INTEREST.

Judge Mellon—How much commission did you receive?

Mr. Bailey—The question, I think, is not relevant unless it can be shown that the city was deprived of money.

Mr. Steel—The matter was an entirely private one. The city got the full face of all the bonds sold, and if there were any terms made by the contractors it would not effect the interest of the city. I desire to say that I never received one cent of interest from money or contract, or from any sale of bonds, nor did any other Commissioner to my knowledge.

Judge Mellon—You know what rumors are afloat. We came here for the purpose of inquiring into them, and if by our investigation we can set these rumors at rest, why so much will be accomplished.

Mr. Steel—I know all about the rumors, and for that reason am anxious to give all the information in my power, both to the members of the Board of Audit, and the citizens generally.

PROBING.

Mr. Reuben Miller—This kind of examination will get us all mixed up. We have nothing to do with Mr. S.'s private affairs here. I would like that we should proceed in order in this matter. I think we should begin at the beginning and take every voucher and account in regular order, page by page, and so dispose of them. By going on in this way we will never get through.

In accordance with Mr. Miller's suggestion, the examination was stopped, and the inspection of documents was commenced. The first paper examined was the mortgage executed for Lyons & Shorb, for the ground upon which the City Hall is built. The mortgage shows that the amount has been paid in full, and Mr. Steel stated that the vouchers were in the possession of the City Treasurer. The mortgage is dated August 27, 1867, and the final payment was made in 1870. A cash payment of $45,000 was first made, and the mortgage was given for $57,000, or $2,000 more than was due. This was to cover the amount of interest due. The bills of the various city journals for publishing the Act of Assembly creating the City Hall Commission were next examined and all objected to by Judge Mellon on the ground that the publication of the act was not necessary. Other vouchers were examined in regular order after which the Board adjourned until nine o'clock this morning.

PURE HONEY.

We are now engaged in putting up in Glass Packages a Perfectly Pure Article of Comb Honey.

We are regularly in receipt of supplies from California, Ohio, Virginia, and other points. We buy direct from the most reliable producers, and it is our intention to maintain the Standard of our Goods, so that our Name upon the Packages will be a guarantee to the consumer that they are getting honey in its purity.

So much Adulterated and Impure Honey has heretofore been offered for sale that many persons think it an impossibility to procure a Pure Article unless they buy it in the original boxes, and in that way they have to pay as much per pound for the glass and wood composing the boxes for the honey, which makes it very expensive.

We put it up actual net weight in one, two and three pound packages, and in a short time it will be found for sale in all the principal Retail Groceries in this vicinity.

GEN. BUTLER threatens to open up his scrap-book on his enemies. What a scattering it will make!

DON CARLOS, it seems, was not at the French town of Hendaye, as reported, but was with his forces near Irun, and is said to have been in critical danger of being captured.

THE Post is respectfully informed that the GAZETTE has made no mistatements about General Negley's lithographed letter. We observed the misapprehension the Post seemed to be laboring under as to what we did say, but regarded it as of a piece with its other ante-election twaddle.

THE reported discovery of a new river in Africa, that flows into Victoria lake, will start afresh the question of the source of the Nile. It has been thought that the Nile flowed out of Victoria lake, and hence the question, what waters supplied that lake? This discovery will probably lead to an important investigation.

FROM the gathering at the Germania bank, yesterday, we are confident that we are now in a fair way to secure the successful organization of a Board of Trade, or Chamber of Commerce, as it is proposed to call it. A committee has been constituted that will canvass the cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny and suburbs for names, and, when these are obtained, the organization will be completed. We hope our business men will not fail to be interested in this movement.

THE New Yorkers are earnestly complaining that the railroad lines centering there discriminate against their grain trade in several particulars. Small shippers are discriminated against, lighterage is charged, and storing facilities are not as abundant as they should be, and companies refuse to increase them. In brief, the railroads deliberately drive away freight that does not pay well, while the Baltimore & Ohio road is picking up the freight on the theory that one car consignments may be followed by others. The subject is regarded with deep interest by the produce dealers in New York.

WE HAVE the information from the workingmen that they are really desirous of meeting manufacturers candidly and fairly, but complain that an equally kind and cordial spirit is not shown toward them. They admit that the root question as between them and the manufacturers is, are the manufacturers able, at existing rates paid to puddlers, to continue business with profit? The puddlers claim they can; the manufacturers that they cannot. The subject, we are glad to say, is being carefully and harmoniously considered, and we trust the outcome will be the continued activity of our manufactories, with rates satisfactory to the working people.

WE have such a profound sympathy with the earnest and laudable efforts of the New York Tribune to search out the "causes" of the late election turn-over, that we cannot forego inviting its attention to the fact that Pennsylvania, which has planted itself in the loving arms of the Democracy, gave indirect expression to its hostility to Third Termism by nominating Governor Hartranft to the Presidency. We would regard this as conclusive on that subject, were it not for the fact that quite a number of States which said nothing on the question, did about the same thing. Still, Petroleum V. Nasby has a logic that makes all events illustrate and enforce his peculiar philosophy as to the colored race, and we know that both facts serve to show the entire correctness of the Tribune's logic.

WITHIN the next two weeks the members of Congress will have generally assembled at Washington, and we hope that a careful and earnest consultation will be had,—not in a spirit of unfriendliness to the President, but with the harmonious purpose of using the three months that remain so carefully and well, that they may close the session in a manner that will be acceptable to the country. We are glad to believe this to be their purpose. The only fear is that a spirit of haste may obtain, and rash measures be adopted. There ought nothing to be allowed that shall merely express the personal vindictiveness of such as regard their political career ended, and are disposed to punish some one. Careful, prudent counsel and right action is what is wanted.

THE PRESIDENT is wonderingly reported as saying he will do precisely what every person who knows his character was aware he would do,—adhere to well settled convictions, despite the elections. He claims that civil service reform must continue, just as he should. There has not a more mischievous paragraph appeared since the elections than that which declared he was about to decapitate office-holders for purely political reasons. The people are not in the mood for such things. We do not agree with the President's financial views. The idea of forcing specie payments by legislation is unphilosophical and wrong. Yet we credit him with honest convictions, and honor the manliness that leads him to adhere to them, despite apparent reverses. We believe that there is little need of financial legislation during this session of Congress.

WE HALF fear, from what we see in the Democratic journals from the peaceful, sunny South, that we are to have a revival of the literature of twenty years ago. The nature, qualities, and anatomy of the colored people begin to attract the studious interest of Democratic editors. It is surprising how soon they have discovered traces of the inferiority of the colored race, since the elections. The more thorough their attention to the subject the more clear and convicing is this truth. Already, as a fruit of these investigations, we have inquiries whether an inferior race should be retained on the same plane of political privilege with the superior race. This may be classed as a politico-religio-anatomical question, peculiarly adapted to the comprehension of the acute Southern mind. In the old days before the war, Slavery was reasoned up to the plane of a patriarchal institution, worthy of reverence, and entitled to all the sanctity supposed to surround the patriarchal character. There is a suspicion of similarity of purpose in the reasoning now current.

OUR manufacturers and general dealers are now in consultation with officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in reference to a plan for pro-rating freights, so that equivalent advantages may be had here with towns West. The complaint is that the discriminations hitherto in force have prevented our people from competing for important items of trade. We are glad to say that the Pennsylvania Railroad officials are meeting them in a friendly spirit and hopes are entertained that all that is asked will be conceded. Our Pittsburgh people have become quite restive at the rates charged, and the action of Councils, the other day, was an expression of this feeling. We thought the action referred to unwise, as an effort should be made to develop a feeling of reciprocal kindliness, and antagonistic action develops unkindly feeling. The Pennsylvania Railroad, in our judgment, will do wisely to delegate some suitable person in Pittsburgh to have charge of its interests at this end of the line. By the cultivation of right feeling, its interests and those of our people will be equitably cared for.

IT IS just possible, occasionally, that a man may have too much, as well as too little, conscience; or, to state it more accurately, what conscience he has, be it much or little, may become morbid. Mr. Ruskin, the art writer, has reached this sad condition. He complains, first, that his name, Ruskin, is but an abbreviation of Rough-skin, and is suggestively disagreeable. Second, Sunday, from the regularity, precision and frequency of its recurrence, casts a lurid gloom over Friday and Saturday, and this makes him unhappy. Third, he receives seven per cent. interest on his investments, and he half thinks this is usury. Fourth, he would like to purchase a girl, black or white,—a subject that ought to give him very little trouble. Fifth, he is fearful of giving money to a beggar, unless he is sure a clergyman is not in sight. Finally, after a long list of other matters, he declares he is misunderstood, ill-tempered, and has few friends left, owing to the loquacious and speculative disposition of the British public as compared with the practical character of his own mind. We extend our heartfelt sympathies to Mr. Ruskin. If he would only come to this country, we could introduce him to a splendid variety of people, as extreme and morbidly conscientious as is he, who take just the other tack. They care very little for name or reputation, never trouble themselves about Sunday, get all the interest they can, never give to beggars, whether clergymen are present or absent, and whose chief trouble is that the very practical American public does not often concern itself over their hair-brained schemes, even when they assume the name of a moral reform.

WE KNEW John Miller, Esq., Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, would be heard from. John, like Andrew Jackson Smith, of New Jersey, is generally around when anything is to be said. He may be said to have a style peculiarly his own,—original, striking, picturesque. It is evidently patterned after that of the Great Napoleon, and were the occasion equal to his eloquence and imagery, we imagine John would make a stir. There are two things that always seem ridiculous,—a proclamation of wonderful pretence over a very small event,—and a very frothy pronunciamento over a very large event. John's partakes of both classifications. He comes to the front, in magnificent style, and briefly and pithily exclaims,—"The battle is over." This referred to the election, and was said several days after that interesting event occurred. Becoming imaginative, he continues, "The setting sun lit up the banners of the Democracy in light, as victory made them glorious." This beautiful sentence evidently warmed him up, and he vigorously shouted, "We encamped on the field of battle." In the fullness of his generosity, he admits that the Republican party "Left its frauds, schemes, jobs, corruption, Civil Rights bill," and the like, and "Took off its negro allies in safety," which is something. We pity the country if the Democratic party should happen to find said frauds, jobs, and the like. We knew John was a genius, but hereafter, when Napoleonic proclamations are needed, we will be happy to refer to him, for he begins and ends well. "I salute you," impressively says John, "greeting," which is different from some of his salutes we have heard of.

HOLD TO THE RIGHT.

The election is now made the occasion for airing all kinds of politico-economic vagaries, some of which are of the wildest character, and most of which are put forth in evident ignorance of actual facts. It is assumed that the country is well-nigh ruined financially, that its trade balances are against it, and that its home manufactures and varied internal commerce are utterly prostrated. On the basis of these ideas, radical changes are proposed in the condition of our currency, the view seeming to be that the root of all these evils is there. The facts are, that the balance of trade, as between us and Europe, is in our favor, with a prospect that this balance will amount to $100,000,000 by the close of the current financial year; our manufactures, while not as profitable as before the panic, are, nevertheless, in a healthful condition, and with a proper adjustment between employer and employe, will be fairly prosperous and quite active. Our internal commerce is of average volume, as the returns of railway earnings amply show. Our currency was never more perfectly adapted to the wants of trade than it now is, and never more completely commanded public confidence. Why change this condition of things? We have a basis for sound recuperation,—and have only to hold on to it, and even to strengthen it, to be entirely safe.

To consider here the single phase of the subject that excites most attention at the present, we hold that there is not the slightest occasion for changing our monetary system. What we have is wiser and better than any change we see proposed. The President has specie payments in his mind, and we regret that he should seek to bring these about by Congressional legislation. It simply cannot be done. Were Congress to impose a severe tariff, that would practically close our markets to foreign competition, compelling our people to develop our home resources while we send abroad to Europe hundreds of millions of dollars worth of produce and raw material, we could soon and naturally have specie payments. But Congress will not do this; and hence the problem is, with our tariff as it now stands, to reach after that result. It must be plain that as we owe $1,000,000,000 in bonds to Europe, which require the export of $60,000,000 in gold annually, we can only reach specie payments naturally by selling enough of our produce to create a gold balance in Europe, that may be drawn on to settle our interest account. Hitherto, the case has been reversed,—England having a gold balance in this country that could be drawn on, when loans were to be made. Germany has illustrated that the mere possession of gold is not a basis for specie payments. It is the power to hold or keep our gold, that is this basis. The gold indemnity that France paid Germany was soon back in England, and from thence to Paris, and to-day Germany is but little better off, as regards a gold balance, than though this indemnity had not been paid. The lesson of all this to us is, that there are laws above those of Congress, and until these are complied with, Congress cannot compel specie payments. We must be able to retain our gold, at home, before we can establish specie payments. To do this, the balance of trade must be in our favor, as we owe bonds abroad on which gold interest must be paid. Hence, unless this is paid in surplus exports, our gold, derived from our mines, will run through our fingers, like water through a sieve. The root of this whole question, therefore, is the balance of trade, and this, in time is dependent on a protective tariff. All Congress need do, is to keep this right, and the specie payment will work out of itself.

Antagonistic to the President is the horde of people who have inflation projects of one kind or other. Of these, we have propositions for a currency of greenbacks, interchangeable with bonds, bearing interest rating from 3.65 to 6 per cent. We can easily see that such an issue, properly limited, might not destroy the credit of the country, but it would put aside our national banking system, which is quite as good, entirely safe, more convenient, and thoroughly established. It thus would be a change without special benefit—and change, for the sake of change, is the very thing to be avoided in our monetary system. Free banking would reach all the benefits, in the way of elasticity, that any system proposes, would not change what we have, and would call in our bonds from Europe. Another scheme is that of delegalizing the legal tenders. This, again, would create confusion, would put the debtor at the mercy of the creditor class, and do no good. The boldest of all is that looking to an enormous issue of legal tenders, buying up bonds, and so starting everything on the current of speculation once more. All these views are those of extremists. Many of them go so far as to utterly scout the value of specie payments, and declare that greenbacks, which stood the test of the panic, and are the best money the nation ever had, are just what we need in unlimited quantities. This is absurd. Gold is and will be international money; and national currency must and will be tested by it. We cannot ignore it. Yet the return to specie payments does not necessarily involve the abandonment of our national currency system, nor will it involve putting that currency out of use. It simply assures its value. And because we have enough gold to meet the demands of foreign creditors, and because our people at home are satisfied with and have confidence in our national currency, we do not need to derange it in order to bring forward specie payments. There is no need for it. When we do resume, it will be through a sufficient accumulation of surplus gold in the country. The conditions essential to that accumulation have developed within a year. Let us keep these favorable, and the other will follow, as effect follows cause.

EX-GOVERNOR WALKER, of Virginia, thinks that the people won the victory, and that the next Congress must execute the policy of economy, retrenchment and reform. As Governor Walker will be a member of the Forty-fourth Congress, it is encouraging to find that his opinions are so practical and wise.

NOT content with furnishing several candidates for the Presidency the Democracy of Ohio are claiming that they have in their Congressional delegation sufficient material for a liberal number of speakers. The inflationists present the Hon. Milton Sayler, and the hard money wing puts Mr. Sayler completely in the shade by naming the Hon. Henry B. Payne, of Cleveland.

THE Omaha and Nebraska journals of the latest date, supply interesting particulars of the life and career of Edward Creighton, the millionaire, whose demise in Omaha has been noticed briefly. His name was made famous by a great feat which he performed in successfully completing the electric chain between the Missouri river and the Pacific ocean. The feat was just as remarkable in its day as the successful laying of the first cable across the Atlantic. It made Edward Creighton immortal. The Pacific telegraph was the pioneer to civilization in the trans-Missouri territory. In making Omaha the initial point of the Pacific telegraph, Edward Creighton virtually made her the initial point of the Union Pacific. A man of rugged intellect and unbending will, self-reliant and self-educated, Edward Creighton was eminently a self-made man. Beginning with muscle as his principal stock in trade, he died from over-exertion of his brain power. Beginning as a poor workingman, he died a millionaire.

IT IS understood there is a rich man in New York whose eccentric charity consists in paying the postage on all letters that have been insufficiently prepaid by the senders. This keeps them out of the Dead Letter Office. Now that this fact is known we suppose there will be a great increase in the number of letters "insufficiently prepaid."

THE result of the election in Wisconsin is very suggestive and ominous. It appears that one year of the "Opposition" abundantly satisfies a community. At the last election the conglomerate party carried the State by about 12,000 majority. It has now gone the other way by 6,000. A change of 18,000 in a year isn't bad, and in this the jubilant Democracy can see what will overtake them a year hence.

BY the disobedience of a lad in 1809, a garden gate in Rhode Island was left open, and a pig got in and destroyed a few plants; a quarrel between the owners of the pig and the garden grew out of it, which spread among their friends, defeated the Federal candidate for the Legislature, and gave the State a Democratic Senator, by whose vote the war of 1812 with Great Britain was declared.

THE Washington Star has this mysterious statement: "Hon. John Morrissey, of New York, will, it is rumored, be a candidate for Sergeant-at-Arms for the Forty-fourth Congress. If John succeeds in buying the property on Capitol Hill, for which he is negotiating a purchase, with the view to establish a club house, he will always know where to find the Democratic absentees when there is a call of the House."

J. H. RAINEY, a colored member of the Forty-fourth Congress, from South Carolina, obtained for Samuel Lee, a colored friend, a position in Washington as one of the Capitol police. At the recent election Lee ran against Rainey, and was elected, and will shortly be in a position to obtain for his defeated friend the place on the police force made vacant by his own elevation. From law preserving to law making is a natural and easy transition.

ACCORDING to the Democrat, the St. Louis Dispatch did understand the Democratic party of Missouri better, and represent it more nearly, than any other paper, and the same impression seems to have been made upon the Osage Leader, which calmly remarks: "When the St. Louis Dispatch asserted that the Democratic party in Missouri could elect a prairie wolf Governor, a fox squirrel Lieutenant Governor, and a muskrat Secretary of State, we thought it an exaggeration, but the election returns look as if Hutch's head was about level."

THE war between Ritualism and Protestantism still rages in England. The Ritualists deny that there ever was any Reformation or break in the continuity of their Church since the days of the apostles. The Ritualists are like the jackdaws. They claim kin with the Roman Catholics, but the Catholics will none of them; they hold on to the Church of England, and the Church of England has cast them out. Rambles Through Scotland.

"The Land of the Brown Heath and Shaggy Wood."

Sketches of Scottish Life and Scenery—Some Historical Places—All Around Glasgow—Castles and Cottages in the Rural Districts—A Morning Scene at Loch Lomond.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

PAISLEY, SCOTLAND, Oct. 20, 1874.

We arrived in Liverpool all right, and after tramping through the town, made preparations for a seven hours' ride over the Caledonian Railroad. In traveling by rail here the first thing you have to decide is first, second or third class tickets. The first class will find you a cushioned arm chair, the comfort of which is not to be spoken of disparagingly. The second will secure you a seat upon a bench with an oil cloth cushion; this will also separate you from the rougher portion of the community, which during fair time is a thing to be desired.

The third class cars that I saw were not cattle pens, but clean though plain compartments with yellow painted seats, somewhat like the seats in rural churches. The locomotives are plainer than ours and destitute of a bell, there being no use for that article as the roads are bridged over thus avoiding to a great extent the danger of our crossings and also enabling them to travel with greater speed.

The scenery after leaving Liverpool consisted chiefly of coal mines, ruined castles and English farm houses; the country was level and well cultivated, but as we proceeded north the Cheviot Hills appeared and the face of the country abounded in little knolls uncultivated yet affording an excellent pasturage. It was among this rolling ground that the beauties of Scottish farm life appeared and elicited my warmest admiration. Our arrival at Glasgow about 11 o'clock P. M. in a drizzling rain shut from my eyes this moving panorama of railway travel and urged me to seek the loved shelter of a hotel—'neath the roof of which I awoke next morning to the savor of "Caller herring for breakfast.

Glasgow Curiosities.

An enthusiastic old Scotchman when called upon to impart information concerning the town of Glasgow, exclaimed with zealous indignation, "Glasgow's a ceety mon," and these words are strikingly true at this time, for since the introduction of steam navigation, dating from the launching of the Comet on the Clyde by Henry Bell, whose monument now adorns the banks of that river, it has rapidly increased in population until at present it is placed a $500,000. Its streets are bounded on either side by spacious stone buildings, from the contracted rooms and closets of which the inhabitants on gala days come thronging like bees from a hive.

To mention, much less to describe all the sights that were seen on the streets and in its places of note would require more of my time and your space that either would be willing to concede, so we must be content with making mention of a few that principally attracted attention. The old Glasgow Cathedral that was founded about 1181, by Bishop Joceline, and which escaped the fate of other similar structures, as they fell a prey to the misguided vengeance of a religious war, by the citizens of Glasgow taking up arms in its defense, was the first object of interest towards which we directed our steps. Its exterior has a dingy and black appearance, owing to the smoky atmosphere depositing upon the sides and crevices of its Gothic structure, the sediment of centuries, but upon entering the main body of the hall, the eye is somewhat relieved, as well as the mind impressed by the grandeur of the sight. Large windows, of which there are many, adorned with the modern improvements of stained glass, cast down a soft religious light upon the arms and escutcheons that are engraven on the walls beneath, and stand as silent yet impressive mementoes of a departed heraldry and an overbearing aristocracy. Passing on, we ascend a few steps and enter the apartment now used by the established kirk of Scotland as a place of worship, and after lingering awhile, struck with a feeling of awe at the vastness of architecture, and with thoughts full of comparisons connecting the past with the present, we descend and enter the Crypsts beneath, and amid massive stone pillars and arches that are but partially revealed by the dim light admitted through dingy windows, we listen to the reverberating echo of our own footfall as it steals along the silent corridors, wakening within our minds vivid imaginings of the times when those who now sleep beneath our feet were the living actors of the days of John Knox. Leaving the building we pass out to the church-yard, which is literally paved with grave-stones lying flat upon the ground, the inscriptions on the majority have given way to the destroying influence of the atmosphere and the wear of passing feet. Over against the wall surrounding the enclosure are erected many tombs, the size and inscriptions of which inform us they were men of distinction and note among the citizens of their day. Before that of Dr. Lows, founder of the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons, we halted and read the following epitaph, written in old English. The date was obliterated:

"Stay, Passenger, and view this stone,
For under it lies such a one
Who cured many while he lived;
So gracious he that no man grieved;
Yea, when his physics' force oft failed,
His pleasant purpose then prevailed;
For of his God he got the grace
To live in mirth and die in peace.
Heaven has his soul, his corpse this stone,—
Sigh, Passenger, and then be gone."

Endeavoring to do the best we could to comply with the request urged upon us in the last stanza, we passed on to view the Necropolis which stands on an adjoining hill and is marked with the monuments of more modern celebrities; that of John Knox, which is surmounted by his statue, holding an open Bible in his hand, is perhaps the most conspicuous. This we are informed by the inscription was erected by the citizens of Glasgow in commemoration of services rendered during the reformation. We also noticed the graves of several eminent Divines and Poets. Casting one more lingering look at the antique spire of the Cathedral, we now enter the train way or street cars on our way toward the Botanical gardens to the walks, groves and palaces, of which we found admittance upon the payment of one shilling. The park of this place I think to be the finest in the city, though this is not the general opinion.

The Botanical Gardens.

Wandering near one of the groves we were lost in astonishment at two immense bones protruding from the ground. On inquiry we learned them to be from the jaws of a whale. They were standing upright, and showed the mouth in a closed position, but yet we feel assured that a sand Paddy, with his horse and cart, could have driven through without any disarrangement of their sides. At the bottom, or where the throat was supposed to be, large bones intersected each other and formed what is known as the riddle, or seive, which prevents it from becoming the desolator of the ocean. Leaving this mammoth curiosity we enter the hot houses or gardens, and bear for a season the heat, as well as enjoy all the luxuriant verdure of the tropics.

We now turn to the Crystal palace. This is a large circular building, surmounted by a dome, and is constructed entirely of glass and iron. The entrance to it is by a hall 50 feet wide. On either side are two fairy grottos or mosseries, a sight of which causes the mind to wander from the real to the ideal. Arranged in order round the circle of the palace, which is 471 feet in circumference, are models of statuary and busts of noted men, who have either a local or wide-spread fame. The first we noticed was a model of the statue of Shakspeare as it stands in the Poet's corner, Westminster Abbey. He is portrayed in a reclining attitude, his left arm resting on a pillar, and the index finger of the right hand pointing to a scroll on which are inscribed the following words:

"The cloud capt tow'rs,
The gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples,
The great globe itself,
Yea all which it inherit
Shall dissolve,
And like the baseless fabric of a vision
Leave not a wreck behind."

We pass around the groups of statuary and then turn to view the prismatic effects of the sparkling fountain that glitters in the gas light, and while the eye is being entertained with pleasing sights our ears hear the inspiring harmonies of "God save the Queen" discoursed by the silver instruments of a Scottish band.

On the streets we found the inhabitants dressed in gala garb, and learned that it was the week for the Glasgow Fair. I intended to give a description of the shows that are held in the city during Fair time, but as it would not be an easy task though it might be an amusing one, I will pass them with the remark that Bunyan must have had them, or something similar in his mind's eye when he described the characters that composed Vanity Fair.

Leaving Glasgow in company with friends we found ourselves on the Greenoch Dock, embarking for a beautiful watering place called Largs; here we endured our first Scotch salt water bath.

They make moderate charges at these watering places; 18 pence or thirty-six cents was all that was asked for a night's lodging in an excellent furnished room of a first-class Hotel. At this place we enjoyed a plesant sail up the Clyde to Bowling. Of the scenery that skirts the banks it would not be wise to express too candid an opinion, for it might perhaps draw down upon my head the denunciation of many who come a long distance to admire it, but I feel assured a sail down the Ohio would be undoubtedly my preference; if the tourist is in quest of rocks, castles and houses in the distance he can here lay for a while asleep and when these sights appear go into ecstacies. But the scenery is bald and uninteresting.

Dumbarton Castle.

Arriving at Bowling we took train for the town of Dumbarton, which is the rock and castle. The rock stands on the southern side of the town, and is washed at its base by the river Clyde. On the top it divides into two mounds, between which are situated the remains of the old castle—now a brick house—to all appearances ill-calculated to withstand a shock of battle or the play of artillery. Under the guidance of a soldier we were shown into a damp, dismal dungeon, confined under the gloomy walls of which many excellent characters had pined away months of anguish. Opposite this is the prison of the present day—where many French prisoners were kept in bonds during the war with that nation. We entered the museum and were shown the historic relics, that keep fresh to Scottish minds the memories of ancient days. Here we found pikes from the field of Bannockburn, ancient armor worn by soldiers three hundred years ago, a flag of George the III, tattered and torn by the hands of contesting forces, the first Union Jack that was ever raised on Dumbarton castle announcing the union of Scotland and England, the battle axe of Bruce, and the much famed sword of Sir Wm. Wallace. This weapon was once forbidden to be exhibited as the one used by the patriot chief, but some people have Indian rubber consciences and we we are not at all inquisitive on these matters and have lively imaginations, so we had no trouble in believing anything that was told us of the wonders it had wrought.

As we passed out we paid a tribute to the patriotism of these men by buying three photographs from those who make it profitable to sell them. We then ascended to the highest point of the rock, which is about four hundred and fifteen feet above the level of the sea. At our feet lay the historical town of Dumbarton, while by its side and off in the distance we could trace the crooked meanderings of the River Severn almost to its source; the beautiful Loch-Lomond farther up, and one topping all others in silent majesty rose the lofty Ben Lomond, washed at its feet by the shining waters of the Lake. As we gazed upon it, feelings aiken to those which animated the hero of Longfellows "Excelsior" took possession of us. We now shook hands with the guide, who had shown us every polite attention, and beneath the roof of friends were soon oblivious to aught but dreams of the morrow. Awakening next morning we took train to Balloch, passing on our way the towns of Renton and Alexandria, which are situated in the romantic vale of the Severn. At Renton we passed a monument erected to the memory of Tobias Smollett, the novelist, and the inscription on which is in Latin and was composed by Dr. Samuel Johnson and others; he was born within a short distance of where it stands near the banks of the Severn.

Beautiful Loch Lomond.

Arriving at Balloch and embarking in a fine steamer we were soon afloat upon this Queen of Scottish Lakes. The morning was somewhat cloudy though broken patches of blue sky gave promise of a delightful day. Heavy mists shrouded the Ben and hung like a silken drapery over field and flood; yet under the influence of a light breeze it slowly lifted and unveiled a scene that can hardly be spoken of too highly. Here and there, dotting the smooth surface of the water, stand numerous islands clothed with the richest verdure. On either bank were sprinkled the neatly white washed houses of the tenantry, making a pleasing contrast to the more aspiring turrets of the lordly castles. At intervals, by the side of a sequestered bay, repose the modest hamlets of many an humble village, although devoid of the show and pomp of a thronged city yet adorned by nature with the blooming flowers of garden and hedge, while around and overlooking this charming picture stand the mountains, their weather-beaten ridges tinged with a blue shade of the springing heather, and the deep solitude of their glens broken occasionally by a leaping stream as it dashed down its rocky bed towards the lakes. Landing at Rowardennan we proceeded to a hotel which stands at the foot of the Ben and from this place without securing the assistance of a guide or the help of ponies, we started guided by our own intelligence and astride shanks mare at ten minutes past ten for the summit, which was still shrouded by mists. After a couple of hours steady traveling, hunger and thirst overcame a former resolution to break our fast only on the top. We sat down by the half way spring to slake our parched lips, eat lunch and look down with a compassionate triumph upon the numerous parties who were slowly toiling up the ascent beneath us and now appeared like moving specks in the distance. As we approached the top mists which had been slowly retreating before us, now lifted for a time, and as we saw the highest peak rise on our sight, we hasted forward and at ten minutes to one reached the goal of our ambition and were standing upon the summit. We thus had occupied the greatest part of three hours in the ascent, and though there are some that boast of accomplishing the task in two, I believe we were the average time of those who go for the purpose of enjoying the scene as they advance. At all events Pittsburgh's delegation was the first upon Ben Lomond summit that day. The veil of mist which had for a time lifted, again suddenly descended and for a few moments we were standing enveloped by a cloud, but a smart breeze coming up, it quickly dispersed and the sun, which all the morning had been striving in vain to peirce the thick gloom, now shone forth and before its cheering beams it rapidly melted away. We were now enabled to admire the scene nature had thus kindly arranged for our visions. Beneath us lay the Loch its appearance small when compared with the sight, standing upon its shores—while toward the west and north huge hills stand in crowded order lifting their towering heads toward the sky and presenting a scene filled with sublimity and grandeur. It is from this side we look down upon the country where Rob Roy administered his rude justice. Over the eastern range mists still lingered, and our view was sadly obscured, but turning to the southwest we were fully paid by the sight presented. Here the mountains of Arran skirted the horizon like dark clouds, while the Bilsa Craig rose at a distant vision upon our view—washed at its base by the sea waves, while the reflected rays of the sun made it appear like a sheet of silver spread out in the distance. The eastern and southern sides of the mount are more gradual in their ascent, and are covered with heather and short grass on which numbers of cattle are feeding. The north and eastern sides are rocky and barren, especially the northern, which presents a vast rocky steep some 2,000 feet in height. The summit is a level spot, with about enough room for a western squatter to pitch his tent and dwell safely, provided of course, that his tent don't move. The minor sights and incidents during the ascent and while on the summit were numerous, among which were the excellent markmanship displayed by one of our party, the wells by the wayside and the answering echoes that could be awakened at various points. But after a couple of hours reveling amid the scenes that surrounded us, we commenced to descend, bringing away a few relics, and recording our names in stone for the information of future generations. We now found our downward course much quicker than the ascent, for in one hour and three quarters we were on the shores of the lake, waiting for the steamer to return.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, November 13, 1874.

In banking circles, a good supply of funds, and a fair demand continue to be the feature. Our bankers regard the demand for money, continued with reference to its sources, as indicating a continued activity in manufacturing circles, and an increase in general business. Real estate and local stocks continue inactive.

The meeting for the organization of a Chamber of Commerce was largely attended yesterday. Richard Waring acted as chairman, and Jos. D. Weeks as Secretary. The proceedings appear in our local columns. The outcome, we are confident, will be the formation of a Chamber of Commerce, which will undoubtedly be of large importance to this city.

There is a possibility that gold may advance in our market, ere long. The steady loss of bullion by the Bank of England—the immediate cause appearing to have been a drain to Egypt to pay for cotton—warrant the belief among brokers that the bank rate will be advanced in the early future, although the rise in securities to-day is construed as meaning that London does not expect the advance will be made this week. Such journals as the London Economist profess great uneasiness at the low reserve of the Bank of England, it being nearly £4,000,000 less than last year, and are urging that the rate shall be put up to the point at which gold will be attracted to London. A determined effort on the part of the Bank of England to gain gold would bear severely on New York, as even at this season when our staple products are going forward the New York market is not supplied with enough exchange to prevent rates here from ruling high. The reason for this is found in the movement for securities, which has been decidedly against this country for the past six months.

—The Secretary of the Treasury gives notice that all United States interest coupons will be paid at any time within ninety days before their maturity (except when otherwise ordered) upon a rebate of interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum in gold, on presentation at the offices of the Treasurer of the United States at Washington, Assistant Treasurers at Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Baltimore, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Chicago, New Orleans, San Francisco and Charleston, and U. S. Depositories at Buffalo and Pittsburgh.

—Yesterday, at noon, in Room No. 9, in the Chamber of Commerce, Philadelphia, was named as the time and place of meeting of the bondholders of the Oil Creek and Allegheny River Railroad, to receive the report of a committee appointed at a previous meeting.

—A well executed counterfeit $5 bill, purporting to be the issue of the First National of Chicago, has been detected. The text and signatures of the bill are complete imitations of the $5 bills of the Traders' National of Chicago, with the words "First National" substituted.

—Washington dispatches say: "Late advices received at the Treasury from Government agents in London say prospects of the Syndicate negotiating the balance of New Fives within the time allotted them are very good."

NEW YORK, November 12, 1874.

The customs receipts were $307,000, and the Treasury disbursements were $237,000. Money 2½@3½. Gold was quiet and firm; opened at 110¼ and closed 110⅜. The clearings were $24,636,000. The carrying rates were 1, 2, 2½@3. Sterling 485@485½ for sixty days and 488½@489 for sight. Governments were stronger, and advanced at noon; afterward became dull, closing strong. Railroad bonds were quiet, with the largest dealings in Central Pacific. The stock market opened heavy and lower. The refusal of the Pacific Mail directors to accept the propositions of the Pacific Railroad had a depressing effect on Pacific Mail and Union Pacific early in the day. In the afternoon the market improved, but closed quiet and weak in tone. The decline ranged ¼@¾ per cent, the extreme having been made in Ohios. The transactions in the Stock Exchange aggregated 160,000 shares, of which 18,000 were Western Union, 28,000 Pacific Mail, 44,000 Lake Shore, 20,000 Union Pacific, 7,000 Northwestern, 5,000 St. Paul, 15,000 Toledo & Wabash, and 2,000 Ohio & Mississippi.

PITTSBURGH DAILY MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, Nov. 12, 1874.

The leading produce markets are quiet, and in a general way, present but little that is new or important; the hand-to-mouth policy is still adhered to, the demand for everything is very light, as people, in consequence of the checkered course of trade since the panic, are apprehensive of the future, hence they are carrying no more stock than is absolutely necessary, and, as a rule, buying nothing they can do without. This accounts for the very light volume of business as compared with this time in former years, and the indications are that there will be no decided or permanent change for the better until the Spring trade opens up. While there have been no recent important changes in values, the tendency of almost everything in this respect is downward; shrinkage is still the order of the day, and this is another important reason why there is an aversion to increasing stock.

APPLES—Continue in fair demand, but the supply is still increasing, and the market is quiet and unchanged; selling, in a jobbing way, at $1,50@2 ₩ bbl for common to fair, and $2,50@3 for prime to choice.

APPLE BUTTER—Dull; 60@65c ₩ gallon.

BEANS—The market continues quiet and unchanged. Quotable at $2 ₩ bushel for mediums and $2,25 for navies.

BROOM CORN—The receipts have been light for some time past, hence the stock in this market is pretty well reduced, and prices continue firm with an advancing tendency.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—3½@4c ₩ lb.

BUTTER—There is no life in the Butter trade, as compared with what it usually is at this season of the year, and notwithstanding the arrivals are comparatively light, the supply is fully up to the demand, which indicates a diminished consumption. Retailers generally report that they are not selling near as much Butter as usual at this particular time, and this explains the dullness to which reference has been made. Prices remain unchanged; 27@29c for prime to choice roll; 20@25 for medium to good and 10@15 for inferior to common. We have a report from New York, under date of 11th, which quotes as follows: "Receipts for the week, 24,037 pkgs; do last week, 18,224 do; same week last year, 25,171 do. Exports past week, 1,471 firkins. The market is dull for all grades below fine pails, and really useful table grades of State and Western. Prices for choice qualities have ruled quite firm, but they have been too scarce for much business to be noted. A number of farmers from the river counties have been in with their dairies and thus far have obtained the range of 35@40c. During the rest of this week it is expected that there will be quite a liberal offering of country owned butter. Western butter when of fresh flavor sells quickly at extreme rates; in some cases 34c has been realized for pretty round lots. Fancy pails in a small way have brought 50c, and at one time to-day it was possible that rate would be given as a regular quotation. The likelihood, however, of extra small dairies arriving in abundance prevents sellers from adopting very stringent quotations."

CHESTNUTS—The arrivals continue light, but the demand is very meagre and prices are entirely nominal at $2,50@3 ₩ bushel.

CRANBERRIES—Quiet and unchanged; selling at $10@15 ₩ bbl, according to quality, the outside figure for Sacketts.

CHEESE—We can report a steady jobbing trade and regular sales at 16½@17 for Ohio Factory, and New York do., 17½@18. Eastern advices report an improved export demand, and, as we noted in our report of Monday, while makers generally are anxious to work of of their October Cheese, they are holding their September make with considerable tenacity, at very full prices, as the latter is of a better quality than the former, and more suitable for holding.

DRIED FRUIT—There is little or no demand for Dried Fruit of any kind, and in consequence, no regular rates have as yet been established. Apples may be quoted nominally at 5@6c, and Peaches (halves) at 7@8c.

EGGS—The supply of fresh is small, although equal to the present wants, which are very meagre; prices remain as last quoted; 29@30. Pickled continue to come in freely, and with these our market is well supplied; quotable at 20@25. Our New York advices, under date of 11th, quote fresh at 31@32, from which it is apparent that this is the best market, for the Western shipper, of the two.

FLOUR—There is no improvement to note in the demand, and while prices continue weak, they are without quotable change. Spring wheat flours, $5,75@6 for Wisconsin's and $6,25@6,50 for Minnesotas; winters, $5,75@6,25 for red and $6,75@7 for white. Our merchants are not doing near the business they did at the corresponding time last year, as they have not the country trade now that they had then. Rye Flour, $5,50 to $5,75.

GROCERIES—The grocery trade continues quiet and devoid of any new or important characteristics to which reference has not already been made. Business, it is true, is generally dull at this particular time, but it appears to be more so than usual this year; and, furthermore, it is likely to continue during this and next month. Our dispatches, both from Baltimore and New York, continue to report Coffee dull, and with a very limited demand and the stock in first hands increasing, lower prices, it would appear, are near at hand. Sugars continue dull and prices offish. Molasses and Syrups quiet and unchanged, and the same is true of most articles in line not mentioned.

GRAIN—The grain markets continue dull; the operations have been unusually light during the past week or ten days, although there has not been much variation in prices. Some of our merchants report that collections are hard to make, and we hear a determination expressed to shut down on long-winded and doubtful buyers. Wheat continues quiet, but prices remain without quotable change—Penna and Ohio Wheat is quotable at $1,12@1,15 for red and amber and white at $1,18@1,20. No. 1 Spring is down to 80 cents in Chicago and No. 2, 85¼; these are low rates, and it is evident that producers back in the interior of the Western States cannot be getting over 60@70 cents ₩ bushel, if that, but there appears to be no help for it; the export demand is not near as large as it was at this time last year. The Oat market continues quiet and unchanged; mixed, 56½ to 57½, and white, 58½ to 59½ cents, according to quality and condition—some dealers quote prime Western white at 60, and claim that there is no margin for profit, taking the cost at the source of supply, at anything less. New ear Corn continues to come in sparingly, and with a light supply, the tone of the market is firmer, although prices remain about as last quoted, 63@68c on track, by the car load; new shelled, 68@72c, in elevator, according to quality. Old Shelled is dull and drooping; quotable at 78@80. Rye is quiet and nominal at $1@1,05. Barley was firmer and higher in Chicago on Wednesday, with sales of No 2 Spring at $1,18@1,20, and No. 3 at $1,06@1,09.

HAY—The market continues quiet and unchanged, although there is a better feeling on the part of holders, in consequence of diminished receipts for some time past: we continue to quote, on track, by the car load, at $18 to $22 ₩ ton, as to quality and condition. Loose is selling from country wagons at $25@30. Oat straw, baled by the car load, $15@17.

PROVISIONS—Our dispatches, both from Cincinnati and Chicago, yesterday, reported those markets firmer and more active, and while our market is sympathizing, prices as yet are no higher, as dealers here want to wait and see whether the advance in the markets in question is sustained. The tendency of the hog market has been upward for some days past, and this, as might be expected, has had its effect upon the product.

POTATOES—The receipts have slacked off slightly during the past few days, but the market is well supplied, and prices, if anything, are easier; prime Peach Blows cannot be fairly quoted above 85 cents by the carload, and Peerless and Early Rose, 65 to 75 cents. Sweets in light supply and firmer; $3 to $3,50 ₩ bbl for Baltimores, and $4,50 to $5 for Jerseys.

POULTRY—Live Chickens, 40@50c ₩ pair; dressed, 12@13c ₩ lb. Live Turkeys, 80c to $1; dressed, 15@17.

CATTLE.

The general tone of the market has been in sellers' favor all week, and, as noted in our report of yesterday, they had no difficulty in selling, and that, too, at very full rates. All the salesmen conceded an active market, but while some claimed that prices were higher as compared with last week, others alleged that there was no quotable advance; buyers, almost without an exception, coincided with the former, and we are forced to-day, taking the quality into consideration, to adopt the same conclusion. We have reason to believe that all grades of butcher cattle brought a slight advance, say 10 to 15c ₩ cwt, and of the best grades, of which the supply was light, the difference was still greater; stockers, however, did not bring any better prices, although they sell more readily. The fact is, the supply was light, while, on the other hand, there was an increased demand, there were more buyers than for several weeks past, and, furthermore, the majority of them, especially those from Philadelphia, bought more liberally. The purchases for Philadelphia footed up 85 cars against, if we remember correctly, 40 cars last week; there were 25 cars bought for New York, and 113 cars were taken by country and local dealers—the number of head sold for the week aggregated 2,927 head. The market, taken all in all, was one of the best the selling interest have had for some time, and there is reason to believe that sellers generally realized a fair margin for profit.

It is thought by well informed operators that the rush is over for this year, that the markets are not likely to be glutted in the immediate future as they were during August, September and October, and if so, we may look for a better condition of affairs, although it is not reasonable to expect, in view of the general shrinkage in almost everything, that prices will go much, if any, higher. Cattle, as compared with grain, flour and farm products generally, are bringing a good price, and if there is a good healthy trade at about current rates, producers will have reason to be satisfied. A great many people, especially those not engaged in the stock business, were at a loss to understand why it was that the producers continued to market their cattle during September and October, when all the leading markets, week after week, were filled to overflowing, and in many instances owners were unable to realize cost at home, thereby losing freight, shrinkage and other expenses, but it is very easily explained. In many parts of the country, in consequence of the protracted drouth, producers were without feed and water, and they were forced to sell off their cattle as best they could; this was the secret of the whole matter. Now, however, it is believed that the great bulk of the surplus cattle has been disposed of, hence, as already intimated, an improved and more satisfactory trade from this on is expected.

HOGS.

Receipts during the past 24 hours, 34 cars, making 146 cars for the week, that is from and including Sunday up until noon to-day. The market continues active and strong, and with favorable weather, together with the fact that hogs are lower here relatively than in the West, prices, as compared with yesterday, have still further advanced. Good to prime Philadelphia hogs sold this forenoon at 7 to 7.20, with a limited supply, while Yorkers were active at 6,20 to 6,40, and when we left the yards, there were but very few remaining unsold. Dealers appear pretty confident that present prices will be fully sustained, perhaps pushed still higher, as long as the weather continues cool, and the fact that Western packers are buying freely, is not without its effect in stimulating the market; furthermore, as already stated, hogs are lower here relatively than in the West, our main source of supply, and as long as this continues it is not reasonable to expect any decline here. We heard a dealer assert to-day that hogs were not bringing any more here than they are in Cincinnati or Chicago, although we were informed by a shipper that our market is higher, relatively, than New York, from which it will be seen that the Western markets are higher than those in the East, and it follows, therefore, that this is a better point for shippers than those of the West.

SHEEP.

The receipts during the past 24 hours were sixteen cars, making eighty-seven cars for the week, an increase of fully one-third, if not more, as compared with the corresponding time last week. The market was active on Tuesday and Wednesday, and a slight advance was established; to-day, however, the arrivals having been larger than was expected and the supply somewhat in excess of the demand, the feeling was weaker; salesmen reported that they were unable to obtain yesterday's prices. Quotations may be given as follows: Extra fine wool, 100 lbs, 5½@5¾; 90@95 lbs, 4¾@5; 80@85 lbs, 4@4½c. Scarce, one of our largest Philadelphia buyers, reported having bought 15 cars at prices ranging from 4½ to 4¾. Lambs may be fairly quoted at 5½@6½; one bunch, averaging 71 lbs, brought 6½ and another, weighing 57 lbs, 5,60.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, Nov. 12, 1874.

The market for Crude continues quiet and unchanged; quotable at 75@77½c per bbl, for immediate shipment, at Parker. The receipts continue meagre, and we do not look for any material increase until there is a rise in the Allegheny river, so as to admit of bringing it down in barges, or the pipe line is completed; however, our refiners are all well supplied, and besides, the indications are that the consumption will be light during the balance of the year. There is no movement in refined, and while the general tone of the market was reported weaker, prices, as compared with yesterday, have undergone no quotable change; 10¼ delivered in Philadelphia and 10¼ in Baltimore. The stock of refined in the five leading foreign ports is reported as being some 300,000 bbls in excess of the corresponding time last year.

The Barrel trade continues dull and neglected, while prices remain unchanged: countries, $1,30; city made, $1,40.

New York Wool Market.

NEW YORK, November 11.—With the more desirable grades of stock offering very reservedly, and the demand showing rather more urgency in the requirements of manufacturers, prices have been quoted firm, as a rule, and in instances stronger and buoyant. The trade call has been somewhat brisker, but considerable difficulty has been experienced in making purchases of any large amounts of stock, holders insisting on rates much above the views of buyers. The recent receipts of stock from all sources have been very moderate, and present indications are not encouraging as to the probability of important early additions to the available supplies. These circumstances, together with the continued ease in the money market, tend to stiffen the views of sellers. The later reports relative to Woolen goods are of a freer movement, tending to stimulate purchases of the raw material. Sales have been reported since our last of 65,000 lbs Domestic Fleece in lots, within the range of 50@57c, 60,000 lbs unwashed stock, part 40c; 6,000 lbs scoured at 75@80c; 285 bales and 5,000 lbs California Spring, 31@35c; 80 bales and 5,000 lbs California Fall on private terms; 145 pks and 5,000 lbs Domestic Pulled part at 45@48c; 23,000 lbs Combing, part at 48 @ 67c. Unwashed; 50 bales Oregon at 30@31c; 8,000 lbs Mixed Georgia at 22@32c; 38,000 lbs Texas at 24@33; and 26 bales Australian at 47½@50c. Other transactions of some magnitude were rumored, but without reliable particulars. From Boston the reports are of increasing activity, with a steadier range as to values.

Iron Markets.

NEW YORK, November 11.—American Pig has been a trifle more active, though nothing to speak of; quotations present a very weak and unsatisfactory front, with an attendant upon over-production. No. 1 quoted at $30@32; No. 2, $27 to $28; and Gray Forge, $25@26; sales of one thousand tons Lehigh on private terms; Scotch, however, is sustained by the limited supply here and the small shipments from the other side; 400 tons Coltness, just received, was sold previous to arrival at $41; Glengarnock nominally at $39@40, and Eglinton, $37@38. In Rails, nothing further than the last sale of 10,000 tons Iron on private terms has taken place; they are still quoted at $73 to $80, and Iron at $58@55, with English quoted at $48, gold. Scrap nominal at $30 for No. 1 Wrought.

PHILADELPHIA, November 11.—The market for Pig is rather quiet, and prices are entirely nominal, with the tendency in favor of buyers. Sales five thousand tons Lehigh Crane, at Hoboken, on secret terms; and fifteen hundred tons Glendon Forge on secret terms, two thousand tons Nos. 1 and 2 Foundry at $28@35, two thousand tons Gray Forge at equal to $24, and eighteen hundred tons White at $20. Manufactured Iron—Bar is unsettled and $1.50. Manufactured Iron—Bar is unsettled and 2.8-10 cents per pound. New Rails continue in good request, and we notice sales of six thousand five hundred tons Steel and seven thousand tons Iron, for the East and South, at $56 at works—fifteen hundred tons old Rails sold at $29, and two hundred tons Scrap at $31,50 here.

GEORGE H. ROHE,
Sergeant, Signal Service, U. S. A.

The weather yesterday was cloudy and cold, with wind from northwest; thermometer 36 at 5 P. M., and falling. The stage of water remains about stationary. A good fall of snow would be acceptible to boatmen, as they have no hope of water until after there is snow.

—From the last Bismarck Tribune, dated October 28th: "The Western left for below Sunday. She returned Saturday from Fort Peck. Had a very pleasant trip, and made a quick and successful one. She brought down twenty-seven passengers, most of whom went on to St. Louis. The Fontenelle and May Lowry having discharged their cargoes at Fort Peck are expected down every day. The Peninah leaves to-day for St. Louis. She has been engaged some days in transferring freight to Lincoln and Rice, earning for her owners many ducats. Capt. Pat Murphy, commander, leaves many friends here who hope to see him return with the Peninah re-constructed."

—The Louisville Courier is responsible for the following:—One of our Democratic steamboat captains went to a country dance not long ago, and was led up and introduced to a very finely-dressed, bushy headed, big-tiltered, pretty young lady. He asked her to "cowtill a hank or two" with him, and was about to "balance all," when she shoved off and remarked: "Captain, are you aware you have no gloves on?" "O! dam it, never mind that, I can wash my hands when the set's over." "Swing corners," came from the fiddler, and the captain "swung her." It was not Capt. Sam Saunders, of the Eureka.

—The question as to which of the two Harlem steamboat companies owns the fastest boat is now about to be definitely settled, as a match for $5,000 a side has been arranged between the steamers Sandy Side and Sylvan Dell, the distance to be from New York to Albany. Probably one or both of the boats will explode during the race. Whatever happens, we hope the managers of rival steamship companies will be taught a sharp lesson; that they must not recklessly endanger the lives of their passengers in order that they may gratify their vanity.

—The Paragon took an immense cargo into New Orleans, including cotton and cotton seed. She lay nearly all day of Friday at Delta, taking on cotton seed at the rate of 15c ₩ sack. She got 1,000 sacks. Some boatmen were mad at Darragh for taking it at that figure.

—A St. Louis exchange says: The Pauline Carroll will be sold at public auction on Tuesday, the 17th of November. The object of the sale of this boat is to satisfy the demands of the Dix estate, which is being adjusted.

—The City of Alton has been valued at $60,000, with an insurance limit of $40,000. She has been reinsured in Cincinnati offices for $35,000.

F[illegible]

[illegible]ity Property Committee [illegible] last night in the City Clerk's office. The contract with Loughrey & Colls for laying sewer pipe at the Thirty-sixth ward station house was approved. The bills of Hahn, Harms & Co., amounting to $72.38, Jacob Friday $21, and J. Ricketts $17.50, for work done were referred to a sub-committee. Estimate No. 6, footing up $720, in favor of Henry Murphy & Co., contractors for the Thirty-sixth ward station house, was approved.

An Appeal to the Churches.

The Pittsburgh Association for the Relief of the Poor hereby respectfully and earnestly solicits all the pastors of the city to take up collections in their respective congregations, on Thanksgiving Day, to aid in carrying on the work of the association through the winter. Its treasury is empty, and the time of resuming its labor is at hand. Already the necessities of the poor are very great, and many worthy people are suffering for aid. We hope for the same kindly response, from the clergymen and churches, as we received last year—assuring them of the united thanks of the recipients of their bounty and the managers of the association.

MRS. LEVI WADE, Secretary.

The Carson Muddle.

A petition was filed in the Common Pleas Court yesterday by the electors of the Fourth Legislative District, through their counsel Messrs. Fetterman, Johnson & Flack, requesting that all the votes cast for Joseph M. and John M. Carson be credited to the former. The petitioners aver that the mistake was in the printing of the tally sheets. The case will come up for hearing on Saturday, Nov. 28, at 10 o'clock.

If the case is decided in favor of Carson, Mr. Wainwright will be compelled to surrender the certificate of election, which has been given and the Court accordingly granted an order requiring him to file an answer to the complaint before the time set for a hearing.

THE ROMANS AGAIN.

The Fight Not Ended.

The Italians at the Armstrong works, on the Westmoreland county side have been fighting again. On Wednesday night about nine o'clock an attack was made on their lines and for about twenty minutes the firing was very sharp. About twelve o'clock there was a second attack which was not of long duration. The pickets kept up the excitement all night by exchanging shots, but we have been unable to learn whether or not any one was hurt.

Two deputies were despatched to Buena Vista last evening by Sheriff Hare and measures are being taken to bring the difficulty to a close.

THE ALLEGED COUNTERFEITING.

The Hearing Before the U. S. Commissioner.

Yesterday afternoon a hearing was had before U. S. Commissioner McCandless in the cases of Albert Ratzkey, August Legab, Emil Legab, Elizabeth Legab and Gustave Praetsch, charged with having in their possession counterfeiting tools and materials for the manufacture of three and five cent nickels in imitation of those issued by the U. S. Mint. In the investigation it was stated by the different witnesses examined for the prosecution, that the fixtures were found in the house of Constantine Legab; that the moulds were found in the garret, and the materials and tools in different parts of the house; that Mr. L. told his wife when asked what he was doing, that he was working on a patent and expected some day to be wealthy. In relating her testimony, his wife professed total ignorance as to what was going on.

Mr. Legab made his escape when the officers appeared to make the arrests, consequently was not present at the trial.

In reference to Mr. G. Praetsch it was not shown that he had anything to do with the alleged counterfeiting, but some of the materials were found in the room which he was occupying at the time the detectives went to the house to investigate the matter. A great many of his friends were present and manifested the greatest interest during the hearing.

Ludwig Keating, Esq., the counsel for the defense, attached the entire blame to Constantine Legab, but as he was absent his case was not as thoroughly reviewed as it might have been, had he been present. The Commissioner, after hearing the evidence, reserved his decision until 3 o'clock to-day, when it will be given. Mrs. Legab was released on her own recognizance, and Messrs. Praetsch and Katzkey gave bail in the sum of $2,000 each for their appearance to-day. The boys were remanded to jail.

THE GRAIN DEALERS.

A Change in their Exchange—A Permanent Organization Effected.

Yesterday morning the members of the Corn Exchange held a meeting at which Mr. Wm. McCreery resigned the Presidency. He explained that when he accepted the position it was understood that it was to be temporary, as he could not give it the proper attention. He therefore moved the election of L. C. Graff Esq., to fill the vacancy.

The motion was carried.

Mr. Graff, in taken the chair, urged the necessity of the grain and produce men of thus combining for their own mutual benefit as they had difficulties innumerable to contend with, and unless they fought them solidly they could not succeed. Pittsburgh last year sold some 5,000,000 bushels of grain and with the proper facilities in transportation and central position in location that this city occupies that could be doubled in two years. Philadelphia with all her advantages of transportation had only sold about 20,000,000 bushels last year, and he believed that that amount could easily be sold in this city in the next three years. Western grain and railroad men in conversation with him had told him that Pittsburgh's position was one of the best in the country for a distributing point for grain, and he believed that now as the grain men were making an effort to help themselves the railroad would soon see that it was to their benefit, and also help them.

A general discussion then followed for some time, in which all pledged themselves to do everything that was possible to support the Exchange.

As the temporary organization was called Corn Exchange, a motion was made by Mr. Rea that the same be changed to Corn and Produce Exchange, which was agreed to.

Mr. Rea moved that all buyers be allowed to enter the Exchange free. This created considerable discussion. It was finally settled by allowing the Board of Managers to issue complimentary tickets to those wishing to buy for the space of three or six months.

The Constitution and By-Laws of the association were read and adopted, and officers nominated for the ensuing year. They will be elected on next Monday.

The association then adjourned.

THE ALLEGHENY MURDER.

Death of Gotthard Walz Last Night—His Dying Statement to the Physician—No Quarrel Between him and the Tinker—The Murderers yet Free.

At eight o'clock last evening Gotthard Walz, who was shot on Wednesday night by highwaymen, on the Perrysville road, a short distance from Allegheny City, died at the residence of his daughter, No. 131 Spring Garden avenue. About four o'clock yesterday afternoon Dr. Buchanan paid a visit to Walz and making an examination discovered that the ball had entered his left side, under the lowest rib, and passing through came out the back, cutting the diaphragm in its course. The wounded man being then in a condition to talk, he told the following story and soon afterward died. He said that in company with his friend Jacobs, the tinker, he was riding in his wagon along the road when two men, one large and the other small, called them to stop. He answered that he would not do it, as that was not the place for the toll gate. The small man then ran to the head of the horses, while the large fellow jumped in the wagon. Mr. Walz handed the lines to the tinker in order to grapple with the man who was then standing in the vehicle. As he got up, however, the rascal struck the tinker over the head with a heavy stick and knocked him senseless. He then drew a revolver and fired three shots at Mr. Walz, but only one of them hit him. Jacobs was senseless, and Mr. Walz becoming powerless from the wound he had received, fell, weak and exhausted, into the bottom of his wagon. The highwaymen then "went through" their pockets, but only got $1.50, as Mr. Walz had deposited all his funds before leaving the city. The above statement proves that the story told by the tinker is true, and that the suspicions of the police to the effect that the shooting was done in a quarrel between Walz and the tinker are incorrect. It seems of late as though the police, when they are unable to arrest the perpetrator of a crime, endeavor to cover their own lack of penetration and shrewdness by charging the crime upon an innocent person. There are a number of things that would lead one familiar with the ways of policemen and detectives to this conclusion. No arrests have yet been made in this case, and the prospect is good of its being added to the list of murders whose perpetrators have been allowed to go unwhipped of justice.

The Assignment of the Reservoir Contracts to Jacob H. Walter—A Long Discussion Upon it—The Transfer as Reported by the Water Committee Finally Approved—New Business Presented.

An adjourned meeting of Common Council was held Thursday afternoon, November 12, 1874.

COMMON COUNCIL.

W. B. NEGLEY..........President.
GEORGE BOOTH..........Clerk.

The following members were present at roll call: Messrs. Aull, Brown, Cunningham, Duff, Foley, Flinn, Fulton, Ihmsen, Knowland, Laughran, Milligan, Mears, Meyran, Morrison, McCord, Reilly, Rolfe, H. M., Rowswell, Rolfe, H. D., Rush, Robinson, Scott, Siebert, Shaltenbrand, Thomas, Thompson, and President Negley.

On motion of Mr. Meyran, the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting was dispensed with.

The object of this meeting was to consider the transfer of the reservoir contract from C. Howard & Son to Jacob H. Walter.

MR. AULL presented the report of the Water Committee, returning the resolutions of Mr. Negley, referred to it Oct. 5, 1874 from Common Council, and recommending that the original transfer, as passed in Select Council, be approved. The report was received and filed, and Mr. Aull moved that the original transfer be approved.

The President declared the motion out of order for reasons stated at the previous meeting.

MR. MEYRAN moved that the action of Select Council be concurred in.

The Chair declared it out of order also.

MR. THOMPSON then called up the resolutions of Oct. 5th, and moved that they be laid on the table.

MR. FULTON wanted to know if laying them on the table would carry all the rest with them.

The chair decided that it would and said that such had always been his ruling.

MR. THOMPSON then withdrew his motion and subsequently moved that the resolutions of October 5th be adopted. He made the motion in order to bring them before Councils, but hoped they would be voted down.

MR. FULTON seconded Mr. Thompson's motion, but stated that his duty to his constituents required him to vote against the resolutions.

MR. WOOD thought the transfer should be made, and said that his vote would be cast in favor of approving the original transfer.

MR. ROBINSON said that if he could be shown that the city would lose $50,000, as alleged, by approving the original transfer, he would vote against it.

MR. MILLIGAN solemnly asserted that the city would lose not only $50,000 but $100,000. He said the transfer as recommended by the Water Committee contained no provision for the payment of $75,000 forfeit money now due the city.

MR. AULL said he certainly could not see how the city would lose one dollar by approving the transfer. He rehearsed the matter of the estimates on stone in Haight's Run, which has been gone over before, and urged that Council set the seal of approval on the original assignment.

MR. NEGLEY (Mr. Thompson in the chair) said that it had been intimated that he was making a personal matter out of this controversy. He felt assured that if Mr. Walter was allowed to speak in Councils, he could conscientiously say that no enmity had been manifested toward him by the speaker. Regarding the matter of forfeit money, Mr. Negley said that some of the members appeared to take it for granted that it would be waived, but he did not think that settled the matter by any means. It might be the minds of a few men, but not the minds of those who form a majority of Council. He considered it rather difficult, in view of the late election, to say what would be the complexion of Councils two years hence, or a year from now, when the contract is completed. After instituting a comparison, Mr. Negley said that the Water Committee had contracted that the work done on the reservoirs should be paid for after being put in place, and that when the estimates were made out, twenty per cent. should be retained. Instead of doing that though the Committee paid for stone in Haight's Run. Engineer Kennedy had said that each a proceeding was allowable. It might be in engineering but it is not in law. The speaker exhibited a copy of an estimate made for him by the Engineer and said it showed that $50,000 had been paid on stone estimated in Haight's Run for the Brilliant Hill reservoir alone. He had been informed, however, that Mr. Walters had used a part or nearly all of that stone in the Hiland reservoir. If such was the case what had Mr. Walter to fear from the approval of the resolutions offered as a substitute for the original? He then took up the resolutions and discussed them seriatim. The original transfer he averred contained no provision fixing the time by which the contract shall be completed, and that it did not hold Mr. Walter to anything, but released not only him but Mr. Howard from the payment of the penalty for not having the work finished within the specified time. In July last the Water Committee passed a resolution that no more estimates should be paid until all the work was in place. In September, however, on the petition of Mr. Walter, they rescinded the resolution and approved an estimate in his favor before the contract had been legally transferred.

MR. WOOD did not think the city would lose the forfeit of $100 per day because C. Howard & Son and their sureties are held as firmly bound as before the assignment.

MR. FULTON made a lengthy speech regarding the abandonment of the work on Brilliant Hill reservoir, and said that it had to be done in order to get money to finish the Hiland reservoir, and he considered it folly and madness to denounce the Water Committee for ordering the stoppage of the work.

MR. NEGLEY said the Water Committee had no authority to stop the work. The ordinance under which it is acting contains no provision giving it such power, and that in taking it into its own hands it did so without warrant. The committee seemed to think it could do as it pleased, but above it, is the people and Councils even. Speaking of the forfeit money, he said the bond given by Howard & Son and their sureties and assumed by Mr. Walter is only for $25,000, and that sum is already swallowed up in the $36,200 due the city for the non-completion of the work by the time specified in the contract.

After some further discussion a vote was reached on the adoption of the resolutions offered by Mr. Negley. The ayes and nays were called, and the result was as follows:

Yeas—Messrs. Foley, Ihmsen, Laughran, Milligan, Reilly, Rolfe H. M., Rolfe H. D., Shaltenbrand and Negley—9.

Nays—Messrs. Aull, Brown, Cunningham, Duff, Flinn, Fulton, Knowland, Mears, Meyran, Morrison, McCord, Rowswell, Rush, Robinson, Scott, Siebert, Thomas, Thompson, and Wood—19.

The resolutions being lost, Mr. Aull moved to concur in the action of Select Council in approving the transfer as submitted by the Water Committee. On the call of the ayes and nays, the motion was carried by the following vote:

Yeas—Messrs. Aull, Brown, Cunningham, Duff, Flinn, Fulton, Knowland, Mears, Meyran, Morrison, McCord, Rowswell, Rush, Robinson, Scott, Siebert, Thomas, Thompson, and Wood—19.

Nays—Messrs. Foley, Ihmsen, Laughran, Milligan, Reilly, H. M. Rolfe, H. D. Rolfe, Shaltenbrand, and President Negley—9.

"CHAMBER OF COMMERCE."

The Second Meeting Yesterday—The Interest Taken in the Project—The Proposed Plan of Operations—A Temporary Organization Effected—Canvassing Committee to be Appointed—Speeches and Reports.

Yesterday afternoon the second meeting of business men was held at the Germania Bank building, for the purpose of taking steps toward the organization of a Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce. The attendance was quite large, and every branch of business was represented—the gentlemen present comprising the Committee of the Whole, appointed at the previous informal meeting.

Mr. R. S. Waring was called to the chair, and Mr. Weeks named as Secretary.

Mr. Waring, in taking the chair, called attention to the importance of the object which had called them together. The trade of Pittsburgh and vicinity was very large, and yet, notwithstanding their varied interests, they had no central organization representing their business influence. The design of the proposed organization was to organize an association that would be representative of the business enterprise of the community, and would tend to the development of every branch of trade and commerce; an organization that would protect the weak as well as the strong, and would unite and concentrate the business influence of the community. He thought the business community had suffered for want of such an organization, and he hoped to see realized the idea of such an association, that tends to the development and prosperity of all our business interests.

THE PLAN PROPOSED.

In conclusion Mr. Waring called for the report of the sub-committee appointed to prepare a plan of organization.

Mr. Weeks then offered the following report.

Your committee appointed to report on a plan of organization has attended to that duty, and beg to submit the following:

Regarding our first duty to be to decide whether to recommend an organization under the charter, laws, etc., of the old Pittsburgh Board of Trade, as the foundation of an entirely new organization, we carefully considered this question as a preliminary one. While there would be some advantage in reorganizing the old Board of Trade, they are more than balanced by the idea of failure that is associated with it, and as it is possible to procure fully as liberal a charter as the one in its possession, under the provisions of the "Wallace bill," we are unanimously of the opinion that it will be better to form an entirely new organization without any reference to the old Board of Trade.

To this end we recommend—

1st. That this body take the preliminary steps to form an organization to be known as The Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, having in view in the same the following objects, viz.: The protecting, fostering, and developing of our commercial and manufacturing interest, by joint and concerted action, by providing for the collecting, preserving and diseminating of statistical and other information concerning the same; by assisting in avoiding and adjusting as far as practicable the controversies and misunderstandings which are liable to arise between parties engaged in trade, and providing for a daily meeting or "exchange" of the representatives of these interests.

2d. That a committee consisting of —— be appointed to canvass for members.

3d. That whenever 300 names are enrolled, notice shall be given of a meeting of the same to complete a permanent organization.

4th. That the fees for membership, and dues for the first year of those joining, previous to permanent organization shall be $10.00 payable on or before the date of the first election of officers to a Treasurer pro tem to be chosen by this body.

JOS. D. WEEKS,
GEO. H. HOLTZMAN,
T. BRENT. SWEARINGEN,
GEO. W. HAILMAN,
C. A. CARPENTER,
Committee.

The report was accepted, and was then considered seriatim.

The first recommendation for the organization of a Chamber of Commerce was approved.

The second resolution for the appointment of a committee to canvass for members was read.

Mr. H. A. Lavely moved to make the number of the committee fifteen.

Mr. Hailman said the matter of securing members was of an extensive character, and he thought there ought to be a large committee. He therefore offered as an amendment, the following:

Resolved, That the blank in the second resolution be filled as follows: Of 9 from Allegheny City; 1 from Sharpsburg, Etna and Bennett; 17 from Pittsburgh, between the rivers to ward 17 inclusive; 5 from the South side, and 3 from the balance of the city, each when so appointed to be regarded as chairman of sub-committees for the district to which he is appointed with power to fill the committee to any number required.

The amendment was seconded by Mr. Lavely and adopted.

Mr. Holdship said that it would take sometime to thoroughly organize. He moved, therefore, that the present Committee of the Whole constitute the temporary organization until a permanent organization be established.

The motion was adopted.

Mr. Weeks then stated that a number of subscriptions had already been obtained. He therefore moved the adoption of the following form of subscription:

We, the undersigned, subscribe to the Chamber of Commerce, of Pittsburgh, the amount set opposite to our names. A subscription of ten dollars entitles to membership, subject to such articles of association and by-laws as may hereafter be adopted; each member is entitled to one vote on organization, at a meeting to be called by the chairman of this committee for the said purpose.

This form of subscription was adopted.

The appointment of the committee in accordance with the resolution of Mr. Holdship was then entered into.

After several names had been suggested, Mr. Warden moved that the matter of selecting canvassers be referred to a sub-committee, to report at a futher meeting.

Mr. King moved as an amendment that the whole matter of appointing a committee to canvass be referred to the sub-comittee on organization, to meet and report at once.

The motion was carried.

THE BENEFITS.

While the sub-committee was deliberating the chair called for remarks from a number of gentlemen.

Mr. Josiah King spoke of the advantage of concerted action among business men for the prosperity of a city in all its business interests, and gave several instances where he had known the trade of Pittsburgh to have been benefited in other years by concerted action among its business men, who brought their influence and public sentiment to bear upon the authorities. In this way the action of the business men was made to be felt, not as the voice of a few, but of the whole business community. Thus the commerce of the city was protected, was aided by wise legislation and malign legislation was prevented.

He had been surprised that a Board of Trade had not been kept up. He thought it should be a surprise to every intelligent business man, who looked at our varied business interests,—the iron, the coal, the glass, the oil, the steel, the grain trade, and all other branches of business enterprise that centered in Pittsburgh—that with such important interests to subserve and protect, there was no organization looking toward a concert of action. He was glad to see this movement. It was in the right direction, and he had in his mind its future success in the building of a spacious edifice for the Board, where the business men could have their headquarters, where they could have on exhibition the products of Pittsburgh industry and capital, and where the business men could meet their patrons from all quarters and transact business expeditiously. The benefits of such an organization were incalculable.

Mr. Dravo was called upon, and said he had been in the habit of addressing such big meetings lately that he could hardly get down to an ordinary gathering. [Laughter.] He was glad to speak a word, however, in favor of the organization of a Board of Trade. He concurred in what had been said by the first speaker, and would add as another advantage of trade, that the economy of time, in having a stated place and time for a meeting of business men, was a very important point. It was of itself enough to justify the organization of a Board of Trade.

Another advantage in such an organization was that if concerted action in all matters pertaining to trade. An official representation of facts had a great deal more weight than any individual assertion. A committee from the Board of Trade or Chamber of Commerce, would have greater weight than any individual or any local organization devoted merely to the interests of our trade alone. He had seen the advantage of concerted action, in the Coal Exchange but thought they needed more than that. They wanted an organization that would represent the entire business interests of the community. He thought it was a shame that Pittsburgh had not such an organization, like other great cities. He hoped the present organization would prove no feeble bantling but would grow into vigor, and that it would enjoy a long and vigorous life.

Mr. McCreery was called upon as President of the Corn Exchange. In response he said he did not come as the President of the Corn Exchange. A short time since the dealers in grain in the city had met together and formed a temporary organization to see if they could hold together for thirty days. The organization was now about twenty days old and was a pretty healthy baby, and gave promise of vigorous life. The grain trade was the smallest trade perhaps in the city, but the Corn Exchange numbered thirty-five members. He thought if that could be done by such a comparatively small branch of trade, that the business interests of the city should certainly support a lively, strong central organization. He did not want the fiascos of other years repeated, and thought it would not be as the right spirit seemed now to prevail—a determination to carry through a permanent organization.

A CANVASSING COMMITTEE.

The sub-committee now reported a list of names of gentlemen as a committee to canvass for members. The committee represented business men in each ward.

Mr. Max Moorhead thought the best plan would be to appoint one member of each industrial and commercial interest, with power to appoint additional canvassers, and in that way the whole business interests of the city could be reached.

On motion the former resolution in reference to the appointment of a committee was repealed.

Mr. Moorhead then moved that the committee consist of one member from each branch of every industrial and commercial interest, to be appointed by the chair and each chairman to have the power to appoint as many assistants as he deemed avisable. This motion was carried.

Mr. R. C. Gray on motion was elected Treasurer and a number of members at once paid in their subscriptions.

Mr. Meyran, in behalf of the Germania Bank, tendered the use of the hall for the Association, free of rent, until a permanent place of meeting was secured.

The generous offer was accepted and a vote of thanks returned.

It was announced that the subscription book would be left at the People's Bank, and all who are interesetd are invited to call there and leave their names and subscriptions.

The meeting then adjourned to meet at the call of the Chair.

(Judge White on the Bench.)

The case of the owners of the steamer "Dick Fulton No. 3" vs. Wm. H. Brown, the owner of the steamer "Charles Brown," is on trial. This is a claim for the loss of a coal boat sunk by the "Charles Brown" in the Mississippi river in February, 1873. The "Charles Brown," with coal boats in tow, was tied up at an eddy twenty miles above Natchez, on the Louisiana shore, when the "Dick Fulton No. 3" passed down and tied up a few hundred yards below her. About the time they got tied up the Brown and her tow either broke loose or backed out and came in collision with one of the coal boats of the Fulton and sunk her. The claim is negligence on the part of the managers of the "Charles Brown," and the plaintiffs want the value of 19,000 bushels of coal and the value of the boat lost. Both boats were landed there because they wanted to go into Nathez in daylight.

In the case of Barney Demos & Co., vs. Clark and Smith, the verdict was for plaintiffs for $232 55.

The plaintiff alleges that she gave Caughey $1,500 to deposit in bank and that he received it and promised to get her a bank book which would draw interest. The defendant says he never received any money, was never offered any, and that the woman hadn't $1,500 to give him. One of the witnesses testified that Mrs. Trautman had asked her to swear that she had given Caughey the money to deposit, and the witness said that she knew nothing of such a transaction.

THE WILLIAMS TRIAL.

The Case Resumed in the United States District Court Yesterday Morning—The Prosecution Closed and the Defense Begun.

The case of D. D. Williams was resumed in the United States District Court yesterday morning before Judge McKenna. A number of witnesses were called for the prosecution, who testified in substance what was published in our issue of yesterday.

F. W. Ellsworth, Sheriff of Crawford county, testified to a check for $6,970 given him by Williams, in payment for two farms purchased at sheriff's sale. The check bore date of January, 1873.

Samuel Dick, of J. B. Dick & Co., said the interest on the check was an individual matter with him. Dick & Co. held the check because there was not enough money in the bank to pay it.

Philip Brown testified to having bought the farm in question in February, 1873, for $3,200.

Mr. Sturtevant, on being recalled, said, on examining the books of the bank they discovered that there was $8,366.79 due from Dick & Co. He called on the firm and their books showed the bank indebted to them in the sum of $1,400. When the witness spoke to Mr. Williams he said he would make it good. The indebtedness was for the Maguire farm. The blotter showed the bank owed Mr. Williams $3,000 on this transaction.

Mr. Sturtevant was again recalled and testified that he had conversed with Williams after his arrest in Erie, and he said he got but $3,000, that one or two of the Directors, who were to participate in the transaction, went back on him.

The defense was opened by J. Ross Thompson, Esq., of Erie, one of the counsel for the defense, who said they expected to be able to show that the robbery could have been and was committed by parties outside of the bank; that Mr. Williams would have been unable to place himself in the condition he was when found, and that he could not have lived an hour longer without relief. They would show that there had been a bona fide robbery, and that the money charged had been carried off.

Relative to the alleged irregularities in the books, Mr. Thompson said they expected to be able to prove that the transaction of the McGuire farm took place with the knowledge of the Directors of the bank, and that similar transactions came under their notice. They would show that the bank had been declaring fictitious dividends; paying dividends of $10,000 annually when they were not making $3,000; that this was accomplished through a system of "shortage" accounts. They would show that the officers of the bank had made, and are trying to make the prisoner the scape goat, in this matter, and that all the irregularities, mistakes, &c., of whatever shape and form, were charged up to him. If they proved these facts, Mr. Thompson said they would ask at the hands of the jury a verdict of acquittal.

Witnesses for defense were then called, Mr. W. S. Robinson being first called. He simply gave in detail the particulars of finding Mr. Williams, and the narration did not materially differ from preceding witnesses.

He was followed by Charles Schorer, H. K. Humes and Peter Olson. The evidence of these seemed to agree as to the exhausted and suffering condition in which Mr. Williams was found and the tightness with which his hands had been tied.

Mr. Olson slept in the Power Hotel in a room fronting on the street, and at about one A. M. heard a cry, which he thought was an alarm of fire, and again, one like a groan or "distressed noise." Between the two sounds the witness got out of bed and looked out, but saw nothing; heard the clock strike one.

Miss Elizabeth McGuin testified that at the time of the robbery she was sleeping in the Power House, and that in the night she heard a distressed hollow, but did not mention it to any one. She told the cook about it when she heard of the robbery. She stated that she heard the clock strike one about that time.

Mrs. G. C. Schofield testified as follows: Resided in Conneautville on the morning of the robbery; lived opposite the bank, sixty or eighty feet off; during the night I heard, at first, walking, then soon after I heard a shrill whistle, and soon after a groan, then a distressed moan twice; my husband was at home, and I waked him after hearing the groan, and said to him that there was murder; my house is provided with a skylight, and I can hear noises plainly from the road; this was at one o'clock, or maybe five minutes after.

At this point the court adjourned until this morning, when the case will be resumed.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

The popularity of an actor is certainly guaged by the size of the audiences he draws. An actor may be popular and yet not able, in the highest sense of the word. It can be truthfully said of Mr. Barrett, however, that he combines both ability and popularity. No representative of the drama visits Pittsburgh who is more of a favorite than the gifted gentleman now playing at the Opera House. The "Marble Heart" was produced last night, we believe for the third time this season in this city, but in the hands of Mr. Barrett it was made so fresh, crisp and new, that even those who have seen it often before appreciated the additional attractiveness lent to it. Mr. Barrett owes not a little of his success to his almost unsurpassed elocutionary powers. He is the fortunate possessor of a voice full, rich, strong and melodious, and its powerful but well undulated tones give sufficient evidence of how well it has been cultivated. It affords one exquisite pleasure to listen to his speeches, and mark how smoothly and evenly his voice glides from a high pitch to the very lowest, enunciating every word so distinctly that it can be heard in all parts of the house. He can even whisper and be heard in the gallery. Such elocution as Mr. Barrett is capable of does not often surprise the ear. His performance last evening was somewhat marred, however, by the fact that he was not well supported by the stock company. We do not feel at all disposed to criticise, though, because several of the members who assumed more prominent parts were obliged to play them for the first time, and as a matter of course, faults would creep in.

This evening is Mr. Barrett's benefit. Bulwer's play of "Money" will be produced.

Library Hall.

The first of the series of concerts by the Germania Orchestra will be given this afternoon at Library Hall. The music lovers of Pittsburgh, and they are very numerous indeed, have here an opportunity to satisfy their taste that will doubtless be improved. The programme for this afternoon is as follows:

PART FIRST.

Overture—"Egmont," Beethoven; 2, Waltz—"Myrtheen Kranz," Strauss; 3, Solo—"Fantasie Caprice," Vieux Temps; Prof. Fred. Toerge; 4, March—"Torchlight."

PART SECOND.

1, Overture—"Fortune's Research," (by request;) 2, Solo—"3d Concerto for Piano (with Orchestra accompaniment), Beethoven. Prof. Leonard Blumenshein; 3, Fantasie—"Parole d'Ameur," Kikoff; 4, Waltz—"High Life," Strauss; 5, Galop d'Concert," Beyer.

Slave Cabin Concerts.

To-morrow evening the first of the Tennesseean Slave Cabin Concerts will be given at the North Avenue M. E. Church. In Cincinnati, where they have been playing recently, they were very popular and we have no fear but they will meet with public recognition and appreciation here. They deserve it and will doubtless be favored with good houses. The second concert will be at Library Hall on Monday evening.

Grace Greenwood the Authoress, and Sarah F. Ames, the Sculptress.

We congratulate the public that the Lecture Committee has engaged these eminent ladies to appear at Library Hall on Tuesday next. Grace is too well and favorably known to require commendation at our hands. But Mrs. Ames is new to our audiences, but we will in future issues advert to her wonderful beauty and ability. These ladies are now drawing crowded audiences in Chicago. The Washington (D. C.) Chronicle thus speaks of them:

GRACE GREENWOOD AND MRS. AMES.—The audience which filled every available seat in Lincoln Hall last evening proved that the entertainment furnished by the ladies above named a few day since only led those who heard them, like Oliver Twist, to cry for more. The grace and sprightliness with which Mrs. Ames enacts Lady Teazle leads one to say genteel comedy is her forte; but her tragic earnestness and power as Lady Macbeth, especially in the sleep-walking scene, shows that she is equally at home as a tragedienne. But, thought in such pieces as 'Over the Hill to the Poor House,' Grace Greenwood displays much power in the pathetic vein, there can be no doubt that comedy is her forte, and especially mimicry, in which her talent is truly wonderful. This was especially evinced last evening in the double impersonation, in which she took by turns the characters of Captain Ralph Hayne, of the Revolutionary army, and Old Aunt Peggy Peabody, each equally good in voice. But her Tabitha Tattle, a creation of her own, affords after all, the best scope for her peculiarly racy style which has made her so famous as a writer.

Although the title is the same, she manages to introduce so many new local hits that it is really a different thing each time.—Washington Daily Chronicle.
